TRIBUTES have been paid to a motorcyclist who died in a road crash near Haverhill.

Father-of-three Mark Golding, 38, from Stoke-by-Clare, was killed when his motorbike was in collision with a Citroen car on the B1057, near Steeple Bumpstead on Saturday.

The driver, a woman from the Braintree area, was cut free from her vehicle by firefighters. She is believed to have suffered minor injuries.

Mr Golding was pronounced dead at the scene after paramedics were unable to save him.

In a statement, Ian Davies, Mr Golding's best friend, said: "Mark was a wonderful husband to Alison and devoted father to his daughters, aged 6, 3 and 1.

"Mark worked in the printing industry and had worked for a company in Ipswich for the past six months.

"His main interest in his life was his family, and he was a keen motorcyclist. All the family members are going to miss Mark greatly."

The road between Haverhill and Steeple Bumpstead was closed for several hours as police investigated the crash.

Anyone with information about this incident should call the Dunmow road policing unit on 0300 3334444.

All set for a big day!

PRINCE William and Kate Middleton will tie the knot in Haverhill tomorrow – on the big screen!

Haverhill Arts Centre, in High Street, will broadcast coverage of the royal wedding from 10am tomorrow, allowing everybody to join in the celebrations.

The royal proceedings will be projected onto the cinema screen and the hall will be decked out in Union flag bunting to create the feeling of an indoor street party, which means the the party can continue, whatever the weather.

Wedding attire is optional. Bring along your camera for a surprise photo opportunity and your own food. The arts centre bar will serve drinks throughout the festivities.

Admission is just £3, including a drink and a slice of wedding cake. To book, call (01440) 714140.

Splashing out to help care funds

SWIMMERS challenged themselves to complete up to 5 kilometres in a leisure centre pool to raise cash for Marie Curie Cancer Care.

Haverhill Leisure Centre in Lord's Croft Lane hosted the "swimathon" earlier this month, with sponsored participants taking on distances of either 5, 2.5 or 1.5 kilometres individually or as part of a team.

This year the annual event took place at 575 pools nationwide with more than 22,000 swimmers taking part to fund the work of 2,000 Marie Curie Nurses across the UK.

Struan Banfield, assistant manager at Haverhill Leisure Centre, said: "The swimathon has become something of an annual event here in Haverhill. It is always a success."

Marie Curie Cancer Care provide end-of-life care to terminally ill patients in their own homes, or in one of their nine hospices around the UK.

MP steps up for sumo race event

WEST Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock will be among the fundraisers slipping on an inflatable sumo suit for St Nicholas Hospice Care on Monday.

He will join scores of other sumo wrestlers to run around Haverhill Recreation Ground for the hospice's inaugural Sumo Run – Give it Large event.

Fundraisers will walk, jog, run, shuffle and wobble their way around a one-mile course while wearing eye-catching inflatable sumo suits in return for sponsorship.

Jenny Baskett, events and challenges fundraiser, said: "We are thrilled Matthew has agreed to join our charity sumo runners in what we hope will be a fun event for all taking part."

"Please come and cheer all the silly sumos as they make their way around the recreation ground." There will be a ladies' race, gentlemen's race and everyone race, so each participant will have the chance to enter two races and double their chances of taking the winner's crown and a special prize. Each runner gets to keep their sumo suit and it is hoped the event will raise thousands of pounds for the hospice.

Pupils snub holiday for exam studies

SIXTY committed Year 6 pupils went back to school during the Easter holiday to prepare for upcoming exams.

As part of their final preparations for national tests in early May, the youngsters participated in a programme of study at Castle Hill Community Middle School in School Lane, Haverhill, over three days. Due to the unusually late Easter break, followed by the shorter school week as a result of the Royal Wedding, staff and parents felt much of the momentum secured so far could be at risk.

Teachers from Castle Hill, Burton End, Place Farm and Kedington tutored in small groups and one-to-one situations over three days last week.

And as a treat for their hard work, pupils were rewarded with an Easter Egg Hunt on the final day, with prizes provided by STP and Tesco.

Police hunting for barechested man

A TOPLESS man is wanted by police after he was seen acting suspiciously at the scene of a burglary.

A house in Station Road, Haverhill, was broken into between 8pm and 4.20pm on Saturday, after a window was smashed in a door. Two cameras and mixing decks were taken.

Police want to speak to a man seen in the area in the morning talking to a female neighbour and looking in her home. He is described as white, in his 30s, around 5ft 8in tall with light coloured hair and wearing dark trousers with a belt and grey or black shoes. He was bare-chested and carried a cream shoulder bag. Meeting puts MP on spot

BY ADAM LUKE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

PUBLIC spending cuts and the Big Society were just two of the topics a local MP was grilled on at a town meeting.

More than 60 people attended the event at Haverhill's Days Inn, including businessmen and women, members of voluntary organisations and councillors, hosted by thebestofhaverhill and featuring guest speaker, West Suffolk's MP, Matthew Hancock.

Mr Hancock, in his first year in Parliament, invited local businesses to share their problems with him and said he would take their issues to Westminster.

The Conservative politician said that public spending

Hancock is questioned on public cuts concern cuts were necessary to help growth "further down the line" for the sake of further generations.

He also claimed that Haverhill had weather the economic storm better than most other areas because the town was not heavily reliant on public sector jobs.

Other questions and issues raised included the Big Society – which Mr Hancock said was being demonstrated in Haverhill by the town's strong voluntary sector – the high price of fuel in Haverhill compared to other areas of the county, the introduction of superfast broadband, and the negative impact of the Royal Wedding holiday on small businesses.

After the session Mr Hancock said: "Haverhill has great energy and momentum, and it was fantastic to have a chance to listen to local businesses about how I can help them make the most of opportunities for the town."

Elaine Carr, owner of thebestofhaverhill, which compiles listings for events and businesses in the town, added: "We had a great turnout for this event, despite it being so close to the Easter weekend."

"I am hoping that the yearly review with Matthew will become a fixed feature in the bestofhaverhill events programme."

Library chief's anger after vandals attack

BY JACK GROVE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

YOBS who damaged windows at Haverhill Library have been condemned by its manager.

Five window panes at the Camps Road library were cracked over the Easter weekend after they were pelted with large stones.

The glass will now be replaced by Suffolk County Council – with taxpayers footing the bill for hundreds of pounds.

Library manager Sanphra Willmott said: "Replacing windows is a slow process but it needs to be done.

"If you leave them cracked then, it encourages others to throw stones and cause further damage.

"It was very disappointing to see and it's sad that people would want to target a community building like this.

"It's a waste of time, money and resources to replace these windows, especially at a time when local authorities are looking to tighten their belts.

"Unfortunately, it's not the first time this has happened and each time it ends up costing us money. Because we are in a communal area, we tend to attract crowds of individuals and this sometimes happens.

"The police have been informed and will be looking into this vandalism."

Meanwhile, a four-month consultation on the future of libraries in Suffolk will end on Saturday.

Under the plans, Haverhill will become one of 15 libraries run by Suffolk County Council but 29 rural branches will be closed or run by charitable trusts.

Figures revealed in the consultation show 163,000 people visit Haverhill Library each year and 134,000 items were issued by staff. It is the county's sixth busiest library and costs the taxpayer an average of £2.32 per visit.

More than 2,500 people have had their say on the closure plans by Suffolk County Council. To make a comment, go to www.suffolk.gov.uk

The library's normal programme of events will return following the May Bank Holiday weekend and includes story and song sessions for babies and toddlers, a Wednesday family history group class and a social morning, also on Wednesday, for older people and their carers.

A book sale and craft fair will also take place on Saturday, May 7 from 10am to 1pm.

Ladybird leads the celebration

A GIANT ladybird went through the streets handing out Easter eggs and goody bags as a business celebrated the holidays.

Saffron Building Society in Queen Street, Haverhill, brought smiles to the faces of young and old at an open day.

The star of the show was an employee who walked up and down the High Street in a ladybird costume handing gifts to children.

Sharon Mattheus, the manager, said the idea was to have a fun day and to meet as many people as possible.

She said: "We were trying to do something for the whole community during the holidays.

"It is important that we include the children and offer something a little bit different.

"We want to get ourselves out there and meet people."

She added: "It was a gorgeous day for it – we wanted to spread some good cheer."

Charity in call for volunteers

SUFFOLK Rape Crisis has appealed for more female volunteers to help run its confidential helpline.

The charity hopes to respond to a steady rise in calls received since it launched the service in November last year.

SRC set up the helpline to provide support for local women and girls who have been victims of rape or other sexual violence – whether recently or earlier in life.

Volunteers will receive full training and supervision, and will be expected to commit three hours a week for one year.

The helpline runs on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7-9pm and can be reached on 0800 0850520.

The charity, which considers itself a feminist organisation, aims to tackle the prejudice and discrimination often experienced by rape victims.

A spokesman for SRC said: "If you support our philosophy, have good listening skills, can be reliable, understanding and non-judgmental, are keen to learn and develop exceptional skills and you want to make a real difference to the lives of our service users, please apply now."

For more information, email kate@suffolkrapecrisis.co.uk or call 07565769962 or 07551065892.

Council welcomes meals on wheels return

A VITAL "local and personal" service could soon be returning to town in an effort to take better care of the vulnerable.

Haverhill Town Council have been concerned about the Meals on Wheels service ever since the town's own service was closed in 2008 after 63 years, and replaced with a centrally-run business based in Bury St Edmunds.

But at a council meeting at the town hall on Tuesday, councillors and volunteers were delighted to hear that the WRVS – the former Women's Royal Voluntary Service behind the scheme – were looking at options to return the provision to Haverhill.

After listening to concerns the organisation said it was looking to recruit a part-time locality manager, funded by the town council and working to develop the service, which currently has 45 customers, alongside volunteers.

Cllr Phillip French, of south ward, welcomed the plan.

He said: "I was never at ease with the service being moved out of town in the first place. "I have spoken to residents and meals need to be provided by local people who know their customers – a local and personal service. It is more than just dropping off food."

The new system, beginning with a 12-month contract before a review, will also see the price drop from £5 to £4 per meal, as to the arts centre kitchen will be used.

Church is wired for sound

Picture: Keith Heppell 728728.

The oldest building in Haverhill has been brought up to date thanks to the installation of a state-of-the-art speaker system.

St Mary's Church in Market Square, dates back to medieval times but now has the same speakers in its rafters as the Sydney Opera House and Los Angeles' Disney concert hall – as well as China White nightclub in London.

Reverend Ian Finn said: "We are very pleased. This is a vital upgrade on what we have had for the past 10 years. The new system will allow people to hear clearly what is going on."

"It will also help with funerals, weddings and any concerts we have. We now can play a selection of music – different music for different people."

"I was very happy to have it installed by a local business."

Haverhill's ValeCraft Audio Visual Ltd is run by Simon Goddard, his brother Jeremy and father Ray, and is one of only eight dealers in the UK licensed to install ATC Loudspeaker Technology. The family-run setup also fits a range of home and commercial speaker systems.

Simon Goddard said it had been a "nightmare" lifting the 17-and-a-half kilogram speakers up into the rafters, but was delighted with how clear the sound was, without distortion.

He said: "It is very difficult to get a really decent sound in a church sometimes but this is the best technology around."

Elaine McManus, Haverhill mayor, listened to a demonstration of the speakers and said she was very impressed by the sound quality.

The installation took two weeks to complete and involved the use of a six-metre tower inside the building.

Microphones, amps and a mixing desk were also installed.

Botox: Let's get the myths sorted out now

THERE'S lots of misunderstanding about Botox, says Dr Maja Bowen, MBBS BACD.

Here's five myths about Botox and fillers

1. Having Botox® or fillers is like having a facial Botox® and dermal fillers, unlike facials, are medical procedures used to effectively treat facial lines and wrinkles.

As with any medical treatment, they should always be performed by experienced doctors or trained nurses under direct medical supervision, in order to give the best results.

2. Botox and filler parties are safe and cost-effective

In fact Botox® and fillers are treatments that need to be tailored individually to each patient, which involves careful assessment to determine individual medical history, unique facial anatomy and aesthetic requirements.

Also, the medicines need to be stored and prepared appropriately.

None of this is possible during a "botox party" which is why you will never see an expert practitioner organise an event like that.

3. All Botox® and fillers are the same
There are several different preparations of the botulinum toxin, only one of which is actual Botox®, and they all require different amount of diluting substance.

The problems with "cheap botox" is most commonly poor or no effect due to inadequate concentrations, and side-effects of cheap fillers range from allergic reactions to gritty appearance.

Only reputable medical clinics can be relied on to always use the non-allergenic, smooth, new generation dermal fillers and to know how to properly prepare Botox® to achieve desired results.

4. As long as someone has a certificate it means they are competent at administering Botox or fillers Botox: An effective medical treatment from reputed clinics.

While an experienced doctor, who has been administering injections and performing minor surgery for years, can quickly learn a new skill, this is not true for non-medically qualified practitioners.

Furthermore, non-doctors performing these procedures have very limited medical knowledge, which can lead to unsatisfactory cosmetic results or complications, which they are not qualified or able to treat.

5. It is a good idea to shop around for the cheapest Botox or fillers treatments

All reputable medical clinics are consistent with their prices and you will find very little if any variation amongst them.

The most cost-effective option is to choose a reputable clinic that offers treatment by experienced medical staff only, in order to give yourself the benefit of optimal results and the confidence of knowing you are in safe hands.

Young riders in the saddle to support cancer carers

A TEENAGER is preparing to lead a group of 12 cyclists on a 50-mile bike ride in memory of his grandfather.

Tom Morrison has recruited a dozen of his classmates from Samuel Ward Academy to join him in the challenge from Haverhill to Cambridge to raise as much money as possible for Macmillan Cancer Support.

Tom, 16, lost his grandfather John, aged 69, to lung cancer last year and had been cared for by Macmillan nurses in hospital.

The Year 11 student said: "I did a similar ride last year but my grandfather was there to cheer me on. As he got more unwell he requested to go to the Macmillan ward and I saw how well he was treated.

"It is great how they treat the patients and they also look after the families."

Tom, who lives with his mother Lynsey in Castle Lane, Haverhill, is hoping to raise at least £500 for the good cause.

He added: "I would like to thank everyone who is taking part and sponsoring me, and also a big thanks to my event manager, Luke Wheeler, from Macmillan."

Fat-fighting programme proves a hit

A FAT-FIGHTING programme used in Haverhill has been named one of the UK's top five courses for tackling childhood obesity.

The MEND (Mind, Energy, Nutrition – Do It!) programme, which is taught across the UK, was developed at London's Great Ormond Street Hospital and funded by the National Lottery.

Abbeycroft Leisure and NHS Suffolk ran sessions at Haverhill Leisure Centre last September, guiding 11 children through a 10-week course of learning and exercise, which aimed to make losing weight more fun for youngsters.

Michael Hattrell, health improvement manager for NHS Suffolk, said: "This project has delivered real results and highlights the importance of good diet and exercise in maintaining a healthy lifestyle.

"By tackling obesity at an early age we can reduce the number of illnesses that people have later in life, as well as helping people feel better and live longer."

All-star cast for business awards

A FOUNDRY boss is hoping to take home a Haverhill Chamber of Commerce Business Award next month – despite already having 14 sitting in his factory.

Gerry Taylor's company, Taylor's Foundry, is the proud manufacturer of the coveted statuettes that will be handed to outstanding local businesses next month.

Mr Taylor is the third generation of his family to run the Hollands Road foundry which was established by his grandfather, Herbert Taylor in 1951. It was taken on by his son Edwin, Gerry's father, who is now company chairman.

Mr Taylor said: "I've made hundreds of these awards over the years, so it would be nice to finally win one myself.

"Times are tough but we are still going strong, which is probably down to the good management put in place by my grandfather and father – and maybe a bit down to me too.

"We generally make components for our customers and do everything from JCB engine parts to the metal fork on the end of Scudamores' punting poles.

"But we are only as busy as our customers and manufacturing has been hard recently.

The awards, first held in 2005, will again be staged at Childford Hall in Linton on Saturday, May 14. The Weekly News is the award's media sponsor.

BY JACK GROVE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Mr Taylor said: "The first time they held the awards we cast them and we've done it every year. I'll be there on the night and it would be great to win one too."

Tickets for the event are £63.83, plus VAT, or £600, plus VAT, for a table of 10.

Included in the price is a sparkling drinks reception, a three-course banquet, an inspirational talk from celebrity guest Claire Young from BBC1's The Apprentice, and popular live band Tangent, followed by a disco. Tickets are available at www.suffolkchamber.co.uk/haverhill

Sir, I would like to thank all those who turned up to support us at Kedington in our Easter Egg Hunt which we have taken over from the Kedington Radio Club.

I am pleased to say that with the continued support of Kedington, who advised us on a lot of the aspects of the hunt, we raised just short of £750.

In respect of the public who turned out it was great, but we as a branch know that we made mistakes and would welcome your comments on any of the things that were found to be a problem or lacking, so that we can put them into practice next year and make it a better day for all concerned. Thanks to all helpers, participants and donors once again.

Last week's Memories photograph, from our archives, showed Geoff Shipp at Westfield Primary School in Haverhill. It was taken in November 1986. Geoff, of North Avenue, Haverhill, spotted the picture. He said: "Regarding the photograph in last week's edition, I am the adult in the picture, not a special guest, but one of the teachers at Westfield Primary School where the picture was taken.

"I taught there from 1978-1987 and it shows my class of 6-7-year-olds, who along with the other children in the school, had sponsored me on a 15-mile walk along the River Orwell to raise funds for the school.

"As was typical of Westfield parents, they were extraordinarily generous and the sum of £476.11p (probably equivalent to close on £1,100 at today's prices) was raised by them to buy equipment and materials for the children. The year is, I believe, 1986. "I did another walk in 1985 and have dated the photographs of that one. As the children are all about 6-7 years old in the photo, they would now be just turned 30, which makes me feel ancient!

"I can remember most of their names but there are three that I'm not exactly sure of.

Kemp, David Carter and ? Lee ?

"I hope that someone will be able to provide the three names that I'm unsure of. "Westfield was my first teaching job after leaving college where, coincidentally, I studied in the same classes as Westfield's present Head Rosie Campbell (or Sullivan as she then was).

"I still see a few of this class around the town and probably wouldn't recognise many of them now. "This is the second time I've appeared in the Memories slot. How many more pictures of me in embarrassing sweaters do you have in your archives!!" We're trawling our archives now Mr Shipp, so expect to appear here soon again!

Funding fears for Hill prison

BY ADAM LUKE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A PRISON inspection has revealed experts' deep concerns about a lack of funding and resources for detention facilities.

HMP St Edmunds Hill in Stradishall received its annual report from the Independent Monitoring Board – a body set up to ensure prisoners are treated humanely and fairly while in custody – this week, and it was found to be lacking in a number of areas.

The board assigned much of the blame on Government spending cuts and the fact that St Edmunds Hill had been forced to merge with nearby Highpoint prison, with so far unimpressive results.

The category C training prison, housing 379 male prisoners, was particularly marked down for poor dental provision.

The report states: "The total number of prisoners waiting to see the dentist as routine cases was 97 and the waiting time is 10 weeks."

"Although the prison authorities and the Primary Care Trust are searching for a remedy, the board believes that the present state of affairs is completely unsatisfactory, and that two fully-funded dentistry sessions a week are necessary to maintain an adequate service."

The report also raised concerns about the prisoners' food budget of just £2.10 per day. Budget cuts had also resulted in a reduced number of staff in the Offender Management Unit.

The report continued: "The board remains concerned that without sufficient investment, progress in providing training opportunities will be difficult to maintain and that instead of continuing to grow and improve, some resources will be lost."

A third of all St Edmunds Hill inmates are foreign nationals, but the board did not believe these prisoners were being kept adequately informed by the authorities.

"The position of foreign national prisoners has improved, but the board still believes the UK Border Agency needs more resources to see that foreign national prisoners know their fate before their release date and are not retained in prison," the report said.

Meanwhile, despite finding there was a less than average feeling of job satisfaction among staff, the board praised workers for their "continuing dedication".

The review also highlighted the one major security breach in June 2010, in which a prisoner escaped when procedures were not followed at four separate checkpoints between reception and the gate.

Bonny bonnets help raise charity cash

EASTER bonnets of all shapes and sizes were on show at a charity fundraiser in aid of fighting a rare disease.

More than 30 members of Haverhill's Keep Active Group – an exercise class for over 50s – turned up at their Easter session at Haverhill Leisure Centre in Ehringhausen Way wearing the specialist headgear for a judge to decide the best creation.

The event was in the name of Behçet's syndrome – a chronic condition caused by disturbances in the body's immune system, resulting in symptoms like mouth ulcers, genital ulcers, eye inflammation and arthritis. It most commonly affects those between the ages of 20 and 40.

Carol Clerkin, from Keep Active, who runs the hour-long classes on Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursday mornings, came up with the idea after finding out a member's daughter had been diagnosed.

Carol said: "The idea behind the fundraising day is to bring awareness to the public and professionals who may not know a lot about the disease."

The group also organised a raffle with all money going to the Behçet's Syndrome Society. Prizes were donated by local businesses including Indulgence, Savers, Town Council Cinema, D: fine Hair & beauty, Haverhill Leisure Centre, C & B Beautiful, Sonias Hair & Beauty, Cineworld and Sainsbury's.

Carol added: "We raised a total of £290 and on the day 60 people attended in support with a display of about 30 Easter hats. Thanks to everyone who helped."

County scores well in 'feel safe' survey

RESIDENTS in Suffolk feel the second safest in England and Wales when it comes to the threat of anti-social behaviour (ASB), according to a recent survey.

Results from the British Crime Survey (BCS) revealed that the county was placed first overall in relation to its residents' perception of drug use or dealing in their area, with only 14 per cent of people thinking it was a big problem.

Suffolk police performed well in residents' perception of drunk or

BY JORDAN DAY

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

rowdy behaviour – placing second in the table.

The BCS measures crime in England and Wales and is used to assess people's attitudes towards crime and the Criminal Justice System.

The results also showed that just 6 per cent of people in Suffolk have a high level of perceived ASB in their area, placing the force first in England, second only to Dyfed-Powys, Wales, overall.

When asked if their local police deal with the things that matter, 60 per cent of residents said "they strongly agree" or "tend to agree", leaving Suffolk in 11th place in England and Wales.

Assistant Chief Constable Paul Marshall said: "The perceptions of our residents are very important to us.

"With crime at its lowest for a decade it is easy to say that the county is safe, but we want people to feel safe and feel that we are doing a good job as well."

He added: "During the year ahead we hope to reduce crime further and in turn see the public's faith in the work we are doing continuing to grow."

Congregation tucks into Easter treats

A TRADITIONAL cooked breakfast got Easter off to a delicious start for a church congregation.

Haverhill Methodist Church, in Camps Road, Haverhill, kept up its annual tradition to get the ball rolling at its family Easter celebration – a full English or vegetarian option was served to 50 adults and children after communion at 9am.

The popular meal was prepared by volunteers and eaten by all in time for a service of celebration at 10.30am in front of a packed church.

During the service, items placed on the cross during Lent, including bread and wine, a money bag, whip, purple robe, crown of thorns and palm branches, were removed.

Also, the cross was covered in colourful flowers brought by members of the congregation, which have been on display to the public all week.

Women's group has £4k grant

A WOMEN'S support group has been awarded a grant of £4,000 after town councillors decided it was exactly the kind of organisation they need to back, despite Government cuts.

At a meeting of Haverhill's Community First Committee in the Town Hall, High Street, last week, the town council agreed to give the money to Wednesdays For Women (WfW) – a group which for the past 14 years has met every week at the town's Leiston Centre.

The future of WfW had appeared under threat and it lost around £5,000 in funding for crèche workers – who allow mothers to attend the meetings – and workshops, but the new grants will help them overcome these cuts.

Maureen Byrne, councillor for Haverhill's north ward, said: "It is extremely important that we support this particular group, even if we have to increase the amount we already grant them."

"They are very vulnerable women – many of them are single parents. They need support emotionally as well as financially."

Cllr Byrne added that she had been deeply concerned by the funding cut and that it was necessary for the town council to step in.

Mothers show off their crafty skills

A GROUP set up to support young mothers has given members the opportunity to flaunt their artistic skills.

Wednesdays for Women (WfW) – which meets every week at Haverhill's Leiston Centre to help vulnerable local women in their everyday lives – worked with local artist Christina

Howard to create some fantastic results.

The event was part of WfW's Freedom programme, exploring the nature of domestic uncertainties.

The group worked over six weeks on canvas using a variety of mediums including textiles, paint, and acrylic. They also utilised a range of methods to achieve their desired effect, all under the watchful eye of Miss Howard.

Lizzie Cocker, a WfW member, said: "A lot of the ladies hadn't done art before and were amazed with themselves with what they could achieve in that length of time.

"It just shows you that anybody can do it."

The project was funded through the Western Suffolk Community Safety Partnership and managed by Forest Heath District Council's arts and heritage officer.

Arts venue lines up top names

BIG names in comedy will be coming to town to entertain this summer, after a cultural venue announced its summer programme.

Haverhill Arts Centre in High Street will welcome Phil Jupitus, from television's Nevermind the Buzzcocks and QI, along with funny men Josh Widdicombe, Dave Foulton and Seann Walsh, in what organisers have dubbed, "four big comedy names with a tiny price tag".

The comedians will be trying out their new material in preparation for August's Edinburgh festival. Jupitus and Widdicombe will take to the stage on Friday, July 8, followed by Foulton and Walsh a week later.

Other highlights of the season include The Searchers' Dennis Locorriere and Bez from the Happy Mondays playing a set and tribute act The Total Stone Roses.

His business offers home condition surveys (HCS) and energy performance certificates and will be doing asbestos management, refurbishment and demolition surveys from June 1.

Mr Stipic says: "I thought this was the right time to consolidate all my surveying skills and start the business. 80 per cent of buyers don't check to see if the property is safe or what needs doing as people mistakenly believe the mortgage lender's valuation is a structural review, and that can come back to bite people later if they find a problem with the property."

"I'll tell you about the 90 per cent of the property that's right, but also about the 10 per cent that needs attention. The home condition survey is a non-invasive, consumer friendly survey with no

Regarding asbestos surveys, and as stated by the Control of Asbestos Regulations 2006, a non-domestic properties' duty holder is required to identify all materials containing asbestos on their site. A management survey is your first step. All reasonable efforts are made to find, quantify and assess all asbestos containing materials as far as is reasonably practicable.

Metal thefts total £500k

BY ADAM LUKE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

MORE than £500,000 of cable has been ripped from manholes in West Suffolk in just 18 months, police have revealed.

The high-value cable is used for essential communications by businesses, households and emergency services, with thefts causing days, and sometimes weeks, of disruptions.

Officers are now calling on Haverhill residents to help them stem the rising tide of metal theft by reporting any suspicious activity.

Pc Paul Greenwood, intelligence officer covering metal thefts in the region, said: "Manholes by the side of the road are opened up and the cabling is dragged out using a vehicle.

"The thieves will often wear fluorescent jackets to look like genuine workmen. The cabling is then pulled to an adjacent field and cut up so it can be transported away.

"Farmers, gamekeepers, drivers and dog walkers will all regularly be out and about in the countryside.

"We want to hear from you if you spot an unmarked van next to an open manhole, someone paying particular attention to the side of the road or an unusual group in a field.

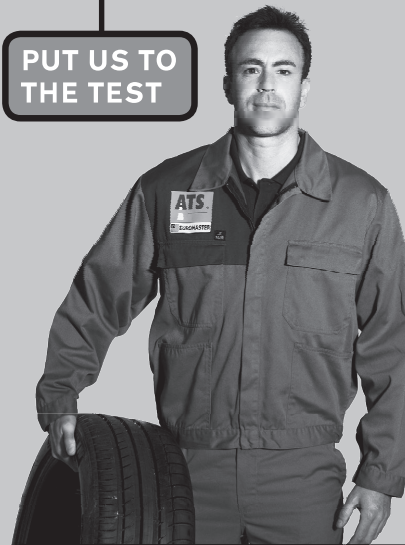

"Scrap metal is still fetching high prices and, along with lead and copper piping, we are seeing telephone cabling being stolen for its scrap value."

Anyone with any information about cabling theft or has seen any suspicious activity should call Suffolk police on (01473) 613500 or dial 999 if a crime is in progress..

Gove's visit to town postponed

EDUCATION secretary Michael Gove's planned visit to two "outstanding" schools was called off at the last minute this week.

Mr Gove was due to visit Haverhill's Samuel Ward Academy and Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College yesterday. But an 11th-hour call by the opposition for a debate on education in the House of Commons meant the trip had to be cancelled.

Mr Gove was to be joined by fellow Conservative, West Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock, and they were due to officially open Samuel Ward as an academy by unveiling a commemorative plaque.

Mr Gove was then set to be shown the work of the Castle Partnership at Castle Manor in which a catchment area with above average levels of deprivation has maintained high standards from playgroup up to sixth form.

Mr Gove's visit has been re-scheduled for Thursday, July 14.

Heritage celebrated: Haverhill mayor Elaine McManus with Ben Pumfrey, chairman of Haverhill in Bloom, as the plaque is installed at the Millfields Way garden. Below, the pair with members of Haverhill in Bloom and Havebury Housing Partnership. CP

Gardens a tribute to milling history

BY ADAM LUKE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A history of windmills in a Suffolk town has been marked by the opening of two new gardens.

The community projects in Millfields Way and Burton End in Haverhill were planned by members of Haverhill in Bloom, and made possible by a grant from Havebury Housing Partnership.

They were designed to commemorate the four windmills which marked the town's skyline before the Second World War, and are designed in the same shape, with accompanying plaques to explain the significance.

The most spectacular of the windmills was Ruffle's which stood in what is now Abingdon Place, to the north of the town centre. It was built in 1885 as one of only four circular sail windmills – with a 50ft diameter – in East Anglia.

Ben Pumfrey, chair of Haverhill in Bloom, said: "It was magnificent in its day. It stood on the hillside and could be seen by all coming into the town by road or train."

The brick tower was 77ft high and contained eight floors. Its sails powered four pairs of grinding stones, but the structure was dismantled in 1942 due to a reported fear that Nazi planes could use it as a landmark to aid navigation.

Mr Pumfrey added: "These are gardens for the community and already they seem to have taken to them. But they are also a memorial to our past."

The garden in Burton End marks the three other post windmills, which sport the more common four smaller sails, turning the building below.

To find out more about Havebury in Bloom, visit them at their gardeners' market and car boot sale on Sunday, May 15 at the Recreation Field in Clement's Lane.

"These are gardens for the community . . . but they are also a memorial to our past."

– Ben Pumfrey

Hunt is on for leading musicians

MUSICIANS are invited to enter a prestigious competition, judged by some of the top performers in their field.

The 22nd Haverhill Sinfonia Soloist Competition has been announced for Saturday, September 24, with the closing date for entries on August 18.

This year's categories are brass, piano, singers, strings, and woodwind. All ages and nationalities may apply, and should be of diploma standard, or at least ABRSM grade 8 distinction.

There will be 35 prizes up for grabs to the value of £8,075, including the chance to perform with the Arnold Sinfonia or Airedale Symphony Orchestra, and solo recital slots in places like Bury St Edmunds, Cambridge, Derby, and Stratford-upon-Avon.

The judging panel will include Kevin Hill MBE, the music director of Haverhill Sinfonia and Arnold Sinfonia; Stephen Bryant, leader of the BBC Symphony Orchestra; Timothy Lines, a professor of clarinet at the Royal College of Music and Royal Academy of Music; and Colin Stone, who is the artistic director of the LMT Chamber Ensemble.

For an entry form, visit www.haverhillsinfonia.co.uk

Families enjoy Easter gathering

AN outreach Easter event for 3 to 8-year-olds and their families was a great success.

Tesco Coffee shop in Haverhill hosted the get-together for youngsters to promote the work of two Sure Start children's centres in the town.

Supporters of On Track in Strabourg Square and Cartwheels in Norton Road attended, providing information including listings of events.

Genny Youngs, Suffolk County Council's families information co-ordinator, said: "It was a great success. We were busy from 9.30am right through to quarter to 12. Our face-painter painted 68 little faces.

"There was also story reading on beanbags to show the importance of families reading together, and colouring competitions for all age groups, working on Easter-themed pictures. Children also made their own Easter cards."

Mrs Youngs thanked Tesco for hosting the event, supplying crafts and providing Easter eggs which were presented to the colouring competition winners last Thursday.

For information about the centres, call On Track on (01440) 760924 or Cartwheels on (01440) 760500.

Paper 'chase' raises £7,300 for charities

MORE than £7,300 has been handed to charity following visits by the Newspaper Society's president to local newspapers across the country.

David Fordham, the chief executive of Iliffe News & Media, which owns the Newmarket Weekly News, completed his term as president of the Newspaper Society by spending 10 weeks touring local papers to raise money for charity.

He visited 40 sites around the country, which are responsible for the production of about 800 local papers, collecting £7,315 in the process.

Mr Fordham supported a number of charities, including Teenage Cancer Trust, Macmillan Cancer Support and Press Relief, our sister paper, the Cambridge News, community fund.

He said: "They are all charities which have some meaning to me in one way or another. The News is supporting Teenage Cancer Trust so I thought it would be appropriate to support them this way. Macmillan is one of those charities which at some point touches the lives of most of us and they do a wonderful job."

Teenage Cancer Trust received £1,500. Helen Bearfield-Swift, regional appeals manager for the charity, said: "It is fantastic that David has chosen to support Teenage Cancer Trust and the funds he raised will go towards the building of the brand new cancer unit at Addenbrooke's.

"The brilliant news is that work is under way and we are looking forward to opening the unit later this year."

Elsbeth Dando, area fundraiser for Macmillan Cancer Support, said: "We are delighted and very grateful for the generous donation of £500.

"We couldn't do our work without supporters like David making a real and positive difference to the lives of those affected by cancer."

Press Relief fundraiser Penny Potter said the funding, which will ensure the group could continue to make a positive impact on the lives of those local people who need it most."

Mr Fordham also supported Cynthia Spencer Hospice, in Northampton, and NewstrAid, a benevolent fund for people in the retail and distribution sector of publishing.

Thanks: top, Elsbeth Dando receives a cheque from David Fordham for Macmillan Cancer Support and above, Helen Bearfield-Swift collects the TCT cheque.

KD: New nail bar files prices to suit

WITH summer just around the corner, now's the time to start thinking about getting your feet flip-flop ready. If your heels are cracked, or your nails could do with some love, turn to a brand new nail bar which has recently opened in Haverhill.

KD Nails is run by Andy Tran, whose family owns a string of nail businesses across the country.

The salon's three experienced and fully-qualified members of staff offer manicures and pedicures at reasonable prices, to get you feeling your best in no time.

The business opened in Haverhill this April, as there were previously no other local companies offering nail care.

Since opening the salon has remained busy, and it's easy to see why with great offers such as £14 for a manicure with polish, or £17 for a French manicure. Pedicures are also good value, with French style available for £26 and regular polish for £23.

You're sure to have a relaxing experience, as nails are cut and cuticles trimmed. Manicures are accompanied with a soothing hand massage, while dead skin is gently pumiced during pedicures.

You can also have nail extensions or acrylics fitted, and customer loyalty is rewarded after

'I don't know what I would've done without my mate Merlin'

Friends: Elaine with Merlin, who gave her fresh hope.
Picture: Keith Heppell 728205.

WALKING slowly across a grassy paddock, enjoying the last of the afternoon sun, Elaine Brown and her beloved horse are a picture of happiness.

Ears pricked and eyes bright, Merlin drops his nose to Elaine's shoulder, whereupon she gives him a little pat; horse and human are, it seems, totally as one.

"To me, Merlin is absolutely perfect," smiles Elaine. "When I come to the yard some days, I'm sure he must put cotton wool in his ears and think 'Oh no, not her again'; I tell him all my troubles and he just listens, he never answers back or complains..."

"I can't tell you what he means to me. To be honest, I don't know what I would have done without him over the last few years."

More than 20 years ago – when she was in her early 30s and a mum to three young children – Elaine was diagnosed with multiple sclerosis. The most common disabling neurological condition diagnosed in young adults, it affects an estimated 100,000 people across the UK.

BY ALICE RYAN

The result of damage to myelin – the protective sheath which surrounds the nerve fibres running throughout the body – the illness disrupts the central nervous system and can cause a vast range of symptoms, from muscle weakness and balance problems to loss of eyesight.

"There was a time when I became very depressed," admits Elaine, now 55. "I got lower and lower and lower in myself; in the end I'd just sit in a chair and cry, not wanting to get up or go out or do anything. I thought the world would be a better place without me."

"Coming to see Merlin gave me a reason to get up from the chair and get out of the house. He gave me something to look forward to. It's not exaggerating to say he's changed my life."

Through the Riding for the Disabled Association (RDA), a national organisation with branches all over the country, Elaine has been visiting Chippenham's Coach House Riding School for the last 12 years.

"When a friend first suggested I try RDA I said no," she remembers. "At that time I was either using sticks or a wheelchair and I hadn't ridden since I was a child – and I was then in my 40s. But eventually I agreed to give it a go."

"I walked into the yard with a stick and ended up riding for 10 minutes. From the very beginning it was a wonderful feeling. Yes, I still had problems with my balance – but once I was in the saddle I felt normal again; I felt free."

Elaine first showed signs of MS in her early 30s. "I fell over a few times, much to everyone's amusement: I got a lot of cracks about having had 'one too many'. And then one morning I woke up and found I'd lost the sight in one eye, which was pretty scary."

"I remember sitting up in bed and saying to my husband 'Am I asleep or awake?' ... He said 'You're awake, you silly devil, why?' and I replied 'Because I can't see out of one of my eyes.'"

Tests, including a lumbar puncture, showed Elaine had MS. "At that point it hadn't crossed my mind that it was anything serious. And it certainly hadn't occurred to me it might be MS, because I didn't really know anything about it. The first question I asked was 'Is it hereditary?', because I was worried about my kids; the doctor assured me it wasn't."

Although the exact cause of MS is unknown, both genetic and environmental factors are thought to play a part.

When Elaine was diagnosed, her children were 12, 10 and 4. "I went home and carried on living life as normally as possible. I looked after the kids, worked in the evenings. But then my health started to deteriorate, and the doctor told me it was time to slow down."

There are different types of MS. The condition can either be progressive, deteriorating by degrees over time, or episodic, which means symptoms ease and worsen by turns.

"I have had a couple of spells in hospital," says Elaine. "Three years ago I suddenly got really ill: I couldn't stop vomiting and I literally couldn't get off the sofa. The doctors explained that my MS had flared up, but that it would settle itself down again, which, thank goodness, it did."

Elaine, who lives alone since separating from her husband last year,

It works: Elaine says riding improved her physical and mental health. 728196.

“Once I was in the saddle I felt normal again . . . I felt free.”

explains that certain symptoms are present all the time, including extreme muscle weakness down her left side, pins and needles, numbness and crippling fatigue.

As a result, she struggles with all manner of everyday tasks such as changing the bed, hanging out washing and lifting pans out of the oven.

“I think the fatigue is one of the worst things, because it’s invisible: people can’t see it. Even my family forget sometimes and look at me as if I’m bonkers if I say I’m too tired to go out and do such-and-such.

“I’m sure people think you’ve been drinking sometimes, when you’re unsteady on your feet and your speech is a bit slurry. But you have good days and bad days, and you have to make the most of the good.”

Elaine, who has five grandchildren, says her family is a great source of both support and joy. And she also credits Linda Porter-Cohen – who owns Coach House Riding School – with providing invaluable help.

“She has never once made me feel like ‘Oh, it’s you again’; I am welcome at the yard whenever I feel able to come, which is a lovely feeling. When I was in hospital, she even came to visit me.”

Linda has been a supporter of the RDA ever since the organisation’s inception in 1969. She now opens the yard on a regular basis to a group of 10 children with special needs and five other individuals, including Elaine, who are dealing with health problems.

“I think it’s wonderful to see the difference riding – and forming relationships with the horses – can make to people: I’ve seen it literally turn people’s lives around,” says Linda, who tells the story of a man, paralysed in a car accident, who learned to lift himself into the saddle with one arm; another, an amputee, who learned how to ride unaided.

“For me, riding hasn’t just done me good physically – it’s really helped improve my muscle tone – but it’s made the world of difference mentally: when I’m up in that saddle, I forget I’ve got anything wrong with me,” explains Elaine.

“I’ve ridden Merlin since the beginning and, over the last 12 years, we have formed a real bond. The kids are always joking that he’s top of my list – and they’re not wrong!” Although her condition is reasonably stable, Elaine knows it could deteriorate – as it did three years ago – at any time and without warning.

“It probably sounds awful, but I don’t think about the future,” she says. “I think about today and tomorrow and maybe next week, and that’s as far as it goes; I’ll worry about the rest when it comes. That’s one thing having MS has taught me: you have to live for today, because you never know what’s coming round the corner tomorrow.”

■ THE Riding for the Disabled Association – known as the RDA – has just celebrated its 40th birthday. With almost 500 branches around the UK, the organisation now helps 23,000 people take part in riding, vaulting and carriage-driving every year.

Set up to help people facing physical challenges, the RDA now works right across the spectrum of disabilities, encompassing those with mental health and learning difficulties too.

It aims to help people reach therapeutic goals (such as improving muscle tone and motor movement) and also combat social isolation (by forming friendships, boosting communication skills and self-confidence), while enjoying the great outdoors and spending time with animals.

Do you know these people?

DETECTIVES want to speak to people caught on CCTV in connection with a number of crimes.

A dozen bottles of champagne and bottles of spirits were stolen from a supermarket in Haycocks Road, Haverhill, on Tuesday, April 12. Police want to speak to the woman pictured in image 1 in connection with this inquiry.

Information is also required about the man pictured in image 2 after two women were assaulted in an alleyway off Haverhill High Street in the early hours of Saturday, March 12. Calls can be made to Det Con Maria Allgood at West Suffolk CID on (01473) 613500.

Help groups feel the strain as funding cut

VOLUNTEER organisations have spoken out in a survey about the impact of spending cuts in Suffolk.

A recent Suffolk Congress survey showed that 30 per cent of voluntary sector organisations in the county thought the cuts would reduce services and members of staff.

Another 35 per cent said there would be a challenge to the survival of their organisation while 50 per cent said their groups have an income of less than £10,000 per year.

The research revealed that 50 per cent of the groups expect their income to fall.

Stephen Singleton, Suffolk Congress member and chief executive of The Suffolk Foundation, said: "We are experiencing a significant increase in demand for grant support as income streams decline for many of our charities, and they look towards grant funders for the shortfall."

Warning over cold-callers' loft insulation offer

HOUSEHOLDERS in the Haverhill area are being warned to be on their guard against rogue traders offering to conduct loft insulation surveys.

The message comes after reports of unsolicited phone calls being made in Suffolk from traders offering the surveys, saying that they were paid for by Government grants.

The calls suggest loft insulation is needed, with the caller trying to arrange an appointment without providing full details of the salesperson or the company conducting the surveys.

James Garrett, Suffolk Fair Trading Officer, said: "We are urging residents to be aware of such calls. Our advice is not to buy or commit to anything based on a cold call.

"If residents require free, independent and impartial advice on saving energy they can contact the Energy Saving Trust on 0800 512 012."

Residents concerned about doorstep callers operating in their area or worried about elderly or vulnerable neighbours being targeted can contact Consumer Direct on 08454 04 05 06.

Richard looks to welcome return

MANY people sing, play guitar and tell stories but not many have supported Steve Martin, Robin Williams or played a guitar duet with Brian May of Queen.

Richard Digance has. He makes a return visit to Haverhill Arts Centre on Friday, May 6 at 8pm on a mission to entertain, armed with a guitar, an immense collection of stories, popular poems and his legendary audience participation sing-songs.

Digance, known as one of the great folk entertainers of the 70s and 80s, is an accomplished musician, rated by many as one of Britain's greatest acoustic guitarists and inspired by his good friend Ralph McTell.

Garry Bushell, in The Sunday People, listed Digance as one of the 'Magnificent Seven of British Comedy', along with the likes of Tommy Cooper and Bob Monkhouse.

On his own ITV Saturday night show Digance played guitar with The Moody Blues, Status Quo, Chris deBurgh, Juan Martin and Elkie Brooks. In recent years he built a further following through his regular appearances on Channel 4's Countdown.

Tickets are £17.50.

Folk stars join up for music gig

TWO of the greatest folk artists of our time return to Haverhill Arts Centre on Sunday.

Acoustic guitarist and songwriter John Renbourn performs with Robin Williamson for an evening of music and humorous tales, blending Irish harp and guitar from 7.30pm.

■ Comedian and folk singer Richard Digance will step back on the arts centre stage on Friday, May 6 at 8pm. He is still one of Britain's top comedy and music attractions, respected by fellow comedians for his original material and by musicians for being one of Britain's top acoustic guitarists.

■ On the cinema front, the second showing of Never Let Me Go (12A) can be seen tonight at 7.45pm.

Reel Culture film Cave Of Forgotten Dreams 2D (U) is showing on Wednesday, May 4 at 7.45pm. Werner Herzog has captured on film the interior of the Chauvet Cave in southern France where the world's oldest cave paintings were discovered in 1994. We are invited to reflect upon our primal desire to communicate and represent the world around us, evolution and our place within it.

The arts centre will be closed on Monday.

Looks like fowl play

BY JENNIFER SHELTON

EXPECT a cacophony of birdsong when a cast of wildfowl and poultry descend on a Cambridge stage next week.

But don't panic if you're not a bird fan – our feathered friends are actually humans in disguise, who will be flocking together to recreate a much-loved fairytale.

"Honk! is the story of The Ugly Duckling," says director Sarah Phelps, from Cambridge musical theatre group Pied Pipers. "It's very close to the original Hans Christian Andersen written version, and the story works beautifully."

The musical centres on Ugly, an aesthetically challenged duckling who's being bullied for his unsightly appearance and downright peculiar voice. After running away he becomes lost, and we follow Ugly's adventures and the creatures he meets – from amorous cats to regimental geese – as he tries to find his mummy, Ida.

Written by Stiles and Drewe, the team behind new Cameron Mackintosh musical Betty Blue Eyes, Honk! was intended for small-scale production. "But it ended up in the West End, and won the Olivier Award for Best New Musical in 2000 when it was up against things like The Lion King and Mamma Mia!" says Sarah.

"And I can see why. The harmonies in it are lovely – musically it really works. And it's one of those shows that's got lines in it for adults as well as the kids."

This isn't the first time Sarah has directed a 'non-human' cast: last year's Beauty and the Beast, which won Pied Pipers a National Operatic and Dramatic Association award, involved dancing human household implements – from teaspoons to napkins. But at least this time she had wildlife videos for inspiration.

"Once people knew what parts they were playing, I sent them off to have a look at clips of how they moved on YouTube," she says.

"Some people did some amazing research – the guy playing the turkey turned up on day one and already knew exactly how he was going to walk.

"What we've tried to go for is recognisable people but with animal characteristics. So the cat is quite slinky when he moves, the chickens are quite gossipy, so they've always got their hands on their hips, almost like wings, the moorhens have their hands behind their backs because they've got quite long wings... and they all look fantastic."

The 24-strong cast will be clad in brightly coloured 1950s garb.

"We chose that for two reasons, firstly because we can use the costumes to reflect bird-like shapes, and we can also have a bit of a play-around with hair and hats to give the impression of duck-type quiffs and curls," explains Sarah.

"The other reason is because it's Pied Pipers' 60th anniversary this year, so we thought we'd set it in the 50s to reflect 60 years on." (The theatre group will be celebrating with a specially commissioned musical, The Ratcatcher, in December.)

Does Sarah have a favourite scene in the show? "Well, there's a bit with a bullfrog that leads into a big number called Warts and All, and it's great because everybody is dressed as frogs," she says.

Technically, Sarah admits it has been a challenge – a 25ft tower has had to be built under the revolving set, in order to let five people 'hatch' out of a giant nest. But the result, she says, is spectacular.

■ Honk!, ADC Theatre, until Saturday at 7.30pm (plus Saturday matinee at 2.30pm). Tickets cost £10 (£8 concessions) from (01223) 300085 or www.adc-theatre.com

Spotlight falls on Super 8

A MIX of animation, drama, comedy and experimental films will be showcased at the Cambridge International Super 8 Film Festival.

A major focus of the festival this year will be the UK premiere of the feature documentary directed by Fred Poulet: the making of the successful French film Mammuth, starring Gérard Depardieu, Isabelle Adjani, Anna Mouglalis and Yolande Moreau. This documentary, shot on Super 8, was first screened in Cannes in 2010.

Poulet shot behind the scenes and interviewed the stars of the film – see the results on May 1 at 4.30pm.

There will also be a chance to take part in a workshop on how to use a Super 8 camera and process the film with chemicals in a bucket.

The festival also hosts a panel discussion to examine the latest trends and practices relating to Super 8.

As the debate on how to transform our cultural and audio-visual heritage continues to bubble, this year's theme is The Future of the Past: Film Preservation in the Digital Century. Join in at noon on Saturday.

■ Cambridge International Super 8 Film Festival, Squeaky Gate, Norfolk Street, Cambridge, today until May 1.

ARTHUR
Certificate (12A) 110m

MONEY makes the world go around but it can't buy you love or a flawless update of the Oscar-winning 1981 comedy starring Dudley Moore as the eponymous billionaire and Sir John Gielgud as his long-suffering butler. Director Jason Winer and screenwriter Peter Baynham cast Russell Brand as their loveable yet irresponsible man-child, whose limitless fortune allows him to circumvent the laws that keep the rest of society in check.

Unlike his predecessor, Brand doesn't possess the innate vulnerability or charm which compelled us to care for Arthur as he boozed himself towards oblivion.

Instead, this new version opts for risqué humour and pop culture references, including a cameo for Evander Holyfield as the hero's boxing coach and a crunching appearance by the Batmobile in the opening sequence. Crucially, Winer's film chooses a female nanny to keep Arthur out of trouble, casting Oscar winner Helen Mirren in this pivotal role.

She brings gravitas to the part and nabs many of the best lines, gently tugging the heartstrings when the friendship with her reckless ward is tested to its limit.

Arthur Bach (Brand) is heir to his family's vast fortune, presided over by his emotionally cold mother, Vivienne (Geraldine James).

The headline-grabbing antics of her son threaten the public image of Bach Worldwide and Vivienne summons Arthur to her office.

Vivienne informs Arthur that he will marry corporate executive Susan Johnson (Jennifer Garner) to ensure she can take charge of the company. If Arthur refuses, he will be cut off from his inheritance.

Arthur resigns himself to marital hell, only to run into tour guide and aspiring author Naomi (Greta Gerwig) outside Grand Central Station. She has no clue who he is, and he responds warmly to her quirky sense of humour.

Soon after, Arthur tries to persuade his mother to let him marry for love not financial security.

Arthur boasts some nice moments, most of them involving Mirren and Brand whose on screen rapport sustains interest through the 110-minute running time.

Brand's tomfoolery skirts brashness and the sexual chemistry with Gerwig simmers but never quite boils. Meanwhile, Garner vamps it up as the ambitious social climber.

Comparisons with the original film are not particularly favourable and in the current recession it's hard to care about a man with pockets deeper than his feelings.

Going Dutch

VISITORS to the wealth of tulip festivals across the UK this year will be able to admire a sea of glorious colour from these famous bulbs.

It's a joyous time for Dutch bulb expert Eric Breed, nurseryman and cultivator, a self-confessed 'bulbaholic' who has travelled to many remote parts of the world to see bulbs growing in their native habitat.

He grew up near the tulip fields of Holland, so naturally knows more than most about growing these dazzling spring bulbs. Always looking forward, his favourites include a new variety, Tulipa 'Leo', a scarlet Darwin hybrid which is a completely different shape from its peers.

"Its flowers are feather-like, almost like a Japanese maple," he enthuses.

"Show it to your friends and they'll want some, too."

The time to plant tulips is all important, Breed explains. Plant them too early and it will be too warm and they won't root. They need a drop in temperature to root well.

"The best time for planting is late October to November and sometimes into December, but the last two years when we've had an early frost, the tulips haven't had a chance to make good roots.

"If the rooting system is disturbed or not complete, then anything that goes wrong will go really wrong. If the

by Hannah Stephenson

rooting system is not good, they'll have difficulty surviving."

They need moist, well-drained soil which is not too acid, adding coarse sand to make the drainage better.

If planting tulips in pots, mix the compost with at least 20 per cent sand, he advises, so that it drains well. If you put the pots outside in the winter, don't let the plants dry out. If you use a regular clay pot, it will dehydrate the soil so you'll need to water it occasionally in the winter.

Gardeners who don't water sufficiently in the cooler months are likely to see the leaves of their tulips turning purple and brown, the plants will be stunted and flowers which wilt quickly, he warns.

Breed puts his containers near the house in the winter, exposing them more to the elements from February onwards and making sure they don't dry out. As the flowers emerge, they should be watered every other day, he advises.

In beds and borders, the taller varieties such as Darwins look great planted with pulmonarias, heuchera and tiarella, hardy geraniums and ground-covering sedums and vincas.

Tulips don't like shade, so avoid planting them under tree canopies or the stems are likely to fall over.

In pots, they look good as stand-alone specimens or combined with other bulbs in the 'sandwich' method. Breed puts Iris reticulata, dwarf daffodils and tulips in the same pot. The iris will bloom first, then the daffodils and finally the tulips.

"Alternatively combine bulbs which bloom together, such as the blue jacket hyacinth with a Jetfire tulip. But you need to make sure your varieties will bloom at the same time and also, don't plant the pot too full. Some people try to put too many bulbs in a pot and they use so much water, the pots dry out within a few hours," he says.

Some tulips will come back in subsequent years, while others will need lifting and replanting in late autumn.

Remove all the dead flowers, which can cause botrytis (grey mould) if left to fall on the foliage.

"The best varieties in general are the Darwin hybrids, fosterianas, the greigii tulips and kaufmanniana. Of course the soil has to be good, but if the Darwin hybrids and fosterianas are planted a little deeper than normal they can come back for many years.

BLAZE OF COLOUR: Tulips don't like shade so avoid planting them under tree canopies or the stems are likely to fall over.

"Many people plant their tulips in conditions which are not ideal, or take away the foliage early – it needs to be left for six weeks after flowering or it won't make a new bulb, the same as narcissi." A year later, the tulips may come up a bit earlier but the flowers should remain true to their colour, he says.

If you want tulips to naturalise, they need the right conditions. If an area is too wet in the summer, they won't come back. Tulips require dry soil in summer, so a wet August could hinder their return. Add organic matter in December to the soil where the tulips are planted.

If a heavy frost is predicted, pots should be covered with horticultural fleece or sacking.

With a little inspiration, this time next year you could have your own little tulip field of Holland in your garden at home.

New Beetle unveiled

VOLKSWAGEN has unveiled the latest generation Beetle at the Shanghai motor show, marking a new era in this iconic car's history.

The latest generation moves away from 1998 New Beetle design and instead draws on cues from the original and Beetle Ragster concept shown in Detroit in 2005. As such it's longer, wider and lower, giving a more "masculine and dynamic" appearance.

The Beetle now measures 4,278mm in length (+152mm), 1,808mm in width (+84mm) and 1,486mm in height (-12mm). The track width front and rear, as well as the wheelbase at 2,537mm, is also increased.

The car's new proportions mean the roof extends back further, the windscreen is shifted back and the rear section is now more akin to that of the original Beetle. The boot capacity is a practical 310 litres, up from 209 litres in the 1998 model. The Beetle has four seats, with a split-fold rear seat for added versatility.

Inside the cabin, the Beetle's designers created a modern, practical and distinctive appearance with easy to identify and ergonomic controls. Certain features, such as the glovebox and colour accent panels, hark back to the original.

Three trim levels will be available - Beetle, Design and Sport. A wide range of innovative optional equipment will also be available, ranging from Keyless Access through satellite navigation systems and a panoramic sunroof to bi-xenon headlights and LED daytime running lights - all of which are available for the first time on a Beetle.

In the UK, a choice of four engines will be offered: three petrol - a 1.2-litre TSI 102bhp, a 1.4-litre TSI 157bhp and a 2.0-litre TSI 196bhp; and one diesel - a 1.6-litre 102bhp with BlueMotion Technology. Thanks to the addition of Stop/Start and battery regeneration systems the Beetle 1.6-litre 102bhp is estimated to have a combined fuel consumption of 65.7mpg and CO2 emissions of 112g/km.

The Beetle is also built to be one of the safest cars on the road, thanks not only to features such as standard ESP and six airbags but also a laser-welded and galvanised body structure with one of the highest torsional rigidity values in the segment at 26,000Nm/°. In addition the range-topping engine, the 2.0-litre 200 PS, will feature standard XDS electronic differential lock as fitted to the Golf GTI.

The new car will be available to order soon, with first cars due early in 2012.

Third Ashley Martin Memorial Rideout to take place May 8

IT'S time to get your motor-cycles out to raise money for Magpas - a worthy cause if ever there was one.

The 3rd Ashley Martin Memorial Rideout to Hunstanton takes place on May 8. The meeting point is Wheelfit Motorcycles, BP Service station, A10 Ely Road, Waterbeach CB25 9PG at 9am, departing at 10.30am. The convoy then makes its way up to Hunstanton where West Norfolk Council has kindly let participants have free parking. Riders can then sample the sea front delights and make their way back at their leisure.

Last year the Ashley Martin Memorial Rideout had support from BikeSafe Cambridgeshire and was a great success.

Fundraising is by means of Rideout T Shirts @ £10 in XL or L, with a limited run of 80 this year, otherwise riders can make donations at Wheelfit and at the meeting point on the Sunday.

All riders are welcome to help raise as funds and to remember Ashley Martin, who died on January 17, 2009. Call Wheelfit on (01223) 440087 or go to www.wheel-fit.co.uk.

Last year's crew: In memory of Ashley Martin.

Northcote Andy-work shatters the new boys

HAVERHILL suffered a baptism of fire when they made their debut in the top flight of the Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship on Saturday.

Set a massive 357 to win, they were 213 for 8 at the close, grinding out five batting points in the 143-run defeat.

The damage was done by Woolpit's opener Andy Northcote, who battered an unbeaten 185 after surviving a close call for lbw off Dan Poole before he had reached his half-century.

The opener, widely regarded as one of the leading batsmen in the league, went on to play the dominant role in a thumping second-wicket partnership of 221 with Crame (115) after Stu Ketteridge struck to send Rutterford packing at 44.

Haverhill's reply rested squarely on the shoulders of skipper Adam Dellar and David Brown, their closed-season signing from Horseheath.

They joined forces at the fall of the first wicket and guided the visitors to a healthy 158, with the home side starting to look anxiously at the scoreboard.

However, Rutterford made the breakthrough, dismissing Brown for 54 and then Poole for a duck. Dellar battled on to 87 before falling at 168 for 4.

After that only No 9 Rajan Singh, who was also making his league bow for the club, made a significant impression, with an unbeaten 29 as Rutterford whipped out the middle order with 5 for 26.

Haverhill play their first home game of the season – against Copdock & Ol – on Saturday (1pm).

■ Haverhill's senior side in the Hunts County Bats First XI Championship made a winning start to the season, beating Lakenheath at Manor Road by a thumping nine wickets.

They are away to Mildenhall on Sunday (1.30pm), while the second team commence their Division Four campaign at home to Bardwell (1.30pm).

Bare-bones Rovers close in on target

The chase is on: Rovers' winger Louis Harper battles for possession in the win at Hadleigh.

Hadleigh 3 Haverhill Rov 4 Ridgions League, Premier Division

HAVERHILL Rovers are within one game of achieving their mission for the season after rediscovering the goal-den touch on Monday.

Manager Peter Betts set a top-10 objective for his team at the start of the season, and the three points at Hadleigh assures them of a place in at least the top eight.

A loftier position hinges on the outcome of their final game of the season against FC Clacton at the New Croft, while Stanway – who are on the same number of points as Rovers – are at home to Kirkley & Pakefield and sixth-placed Norwich United, who are three points better off, are at home to Debenham LC.

Goals from Dan Pilcher, Callum Harrison and Jack Higgs lifted Rovers into a deserved 3-0 lead at Hadleigh. But the home side responded with two quick goals in the second half.

A Marc Abbott penalty, awarded after he was brought down 10 minutes from time, made it 4-2, with Hadleigh scoring again in the last minute.

Betts said: "We played well with a bare squad. We were missing a few key players again – Dalton O'Brien, Stuart Wardley, Stuart Kingham and Jamie Challis – but still managed to play well as those that were there worked really hard.

"We scored some good goals and came away with three points, which is really pleasing.

"The last couple of months have been disappointing, so it was good for morale to get the win.

"The result means we should be sure of finishing in the top eight, which means we will have achieved our objective at the start of the season of finishing in the top 10."

However, he added: "The last two months have highlighted the problems we've had with the squad and the areas we need to improve. We've not been the same since the injuries, but if we get the depth for next season it shouldn't happen again."

Rovers were beaten 2-1 at Kirkley & Pakefield on Saturday, Marcus Hunt scoring.

Craig's treble cannot stave off Wrating defeat

DEAN Craig's hat-trick was not enough to prevent West Wrating going down 4-3 at Chatteris in the Kershaw League, Premier Division.

After a goalless first half, Craig put the visitors ahead, but Jack Saunders notched a pair to give the Lilies the edge.

Craig levelled for Wrating before wrestling the advantage their way with his third.

But Aidan Hollis got the hosts back on terms and Aaron Bailey clinched the winner.

And Wrating lost 3-1 at home to champions-elect Lakenheath on Tuesday, despite taking a third-minute lead through Luke Bennett.

Mark Boucher's hat-trick was largely responsible for Hundon's 4-1 defeat against Somersham in their bottom-of-the-table clash.

Boucher opened the scoring just before the interval, but Ryan Kent levelled for the basement boys. However, Boucher hit two more, either side of a Harry Higgins goal, to seal it.
